GENERAL NEWS.

Three Prominent Virginia Republicans to John Mahone.

THE PRESIDENT'S CONDITION STEADILY IMPROVING.

A Chapter of Horrible Crimes—Particulars of "The Kid's" Death—Sitting Bull reported Ready to Surrender—Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE [illegible] NEWS

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The president's afternoon fever yesterday was a little more strongly marked [illegible] than the night before, the pulse showing an increase of four beats, the temperature a rise of 6-10 and respiration slight [illegible] accordingly, than as compared with the maximum of Sunday. The president yesterday afternoon became overwearied in the hands of a barber. He expressed a desire to have his beard and hair trimmed and his head rubbed and at his request a barber was summoned. The latter spent some time rubbing him and although the immediate effects were over fatigue and increased feverishness, however, from the transient rise in the pulse and temperature the president's symptoms continue favorable. Dr. Bliss upon being asked at 10 30 last night whether there was anything in patient's condition, said the trifling intensity of fever would be regarded as natural fluctuations and would not excite special remark. Reasons assigned for it are as follows: The president during the past three days and more especially yesterday has taken largely increased quantities of solid food; his stomach is still sensitive and manifests sensitiveness when overtaxed by symptoms of disturbance. Such was the case yesterday and this gastric trouble is thought to have been largely instrumental in aggravating the febrile symptoms. To justify uneasiness, replied he, there is nothing whatever. He is doing well, the fever is subsiding, his pulse is below 100 again and he is sleeping quietly. He became a little over wearied yesterday afternoon. He will probably be as well again to-morrow morning as he was this. In reply to a question with regard to the wound Dr. Bliss said the process of suppuration is going on satisfactorily and the track of the ball is slowly being cleared by discharge. In dressing the wound last night the drainage tube, without the exertion of the least force, dropped into a depth of 5½ inches.

Our experience with the drainage tube last night confirms our previously expressed judgment that the ball did enter the abdominal cavity and pierced the liver. I believe it passed through that organ and is lodged in the interior wall of the abdomen.

The 8:30 A. M. Bulletin.

The following bulletins were sent this forenoon to cabinet officers by the president's private secretary:

July 19, 8 A. M.—Slight increased febrile rise which occurred yesterday evening, but which was not due to any unfavorable change in the condition of the wound, has entirely disappeared this morning and at this hour the president's pulse is 90 with normal temperature and respiration. He rested well during the night, at one time sleeping three and one-half hours without awakening. He is now feeling bright and comfortable. There will be a slight change in diet, something else being substituted for potatoes and oatmeal, which have been found unsatisfactory.

8 30 A. M.—The president passed a very good night and this morning he is free from fever and expresses himself as feeling quite comfortably. Pulse 90, temperature 98.5, respiration 18.

The Official Bulletin.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The following telegram was sent by attending surgeons to consulting surgeons to-night:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 19, 7 P. M.

To Drs. Frank H. Hamilton and D. [illegible] Agnew:—Last evening the president received a hypodermic injection of one eighth of a grain of sulphate of morphia and slept well during the night. He continues to take sulphate of quinia in [illegible] grain doses and has [illegible] when required. As anticipated the increased fever of yesterday proved only temporary and he had a better day to-day than any since he was injured. The wound looks well and is discharging healthy pus freely. This morning at 8.30 his pulse was 90, temperature 98.4, respiration 18. At 1 P. M. pulse 9[illegible], temperature 98.5, respiration 19. At 7 P. M. pulse 96, temperature [illegible], respiration 2[illegible]. (Signed)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—A southern politician of some prominence informed the postmaster general that on the [illegible] day of May he, in company with another gentleman, was visiting the state department [illegible] the White House. "I will show them whether I can get even with them." Next day according to Guiteau's confession he purchased a pistol.

Virginia Republicans favoring Coalition

HARRISONBURG, Va., July 19.—Two members of the state central republican committee who have heretofore acted with Gen. Wickham and straight-outs have come out in favor of fusion with the Mahone forces. Fernall, United States internal revenue collector for the fifth Virginia district, heretofore straight-out, has also declared for coalition with Mahone.

Particulars of the "Kid's" Death.

LAS VEGAS, July 16.—Positive information reached this city early this morning by messenger in regard to the killing of the notorious Billy the Kid at Fort Sumner, 120 miles distant on Pecos river, at 11 30 last Saturday morning. Billy had been stopping with Mexicans in that vicinity, disguised as one of them ever since his escape from the Lincoln county jail. Pat Garrett, sheriff of Lincoln county, has been on his track for some time. On the day above mentioned he arrived at Fort Sumner, having been put on the track by some Mexicans. He had to threaten their lives in order to get them to divulge the Kid's whereabouts. About 12 o'clock, midnight, Sheriff Garrett entered the room of one Pete Maxwell, a large stockowner residing at the fort, and supposed to have a knowledge of the fugitive's exact whereabouts. Garrett had not been in the room over 20 minutes when the Kid entered in his stocking feet, knife in hand, ostensibly for the purpose of buying some meat. He immediately observed Garrett crouching at the head of a bed and asking Maxwell what that was, drew his revolver. Maxwell made no answer but proceeded to crawl toward the foot of the bed. Had he answered giving Garrett his name Billy would have killed him at once, as he is a dead shot. Billy moved slightly, getting into the moonlight then shining in at a rough window. Garrett recognizing him fired, the ball passing through his head. He fell backwards, his knife in one hand and revolver in the other. Garrett, thinking him not dead, fired again, but missed him. Had his first shot failed he would have been riddled with bullets, as the Kid is known to have been terribly desperate and very accurate in aim when in close quarters. His death is hailed with great joy throughout this section as he had sworn that he would kill several prominent citizens and had already slain 15 or 16 men.

A down-hearted Man Murders his entire Family and himself.

WINONA, Minn., July 19.—Paul Held, a Swiss emigrant who had lately bought a farm in Eagle Creek valley, became insane through failure of crops and homesickness. On Sunday morning he was found dead in the front room of his house, his wife and two children were dead in the next room, three children dead in bed up stairs and the two oldest boys in the hay loft, left mortally wounded. All were shot in the head. One boy may live. A revolver was found in the house.

Outrage on Indians.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 19.—A report has been received here that four outlaws visited a camp of Mille Lac Indians near Aitkin this morning about 2 o'clock and murdered the chief and four Indians. The murderers were arrested.

Report of Sitting Bull's Surrender.

The Pioneer Press has special advices from Sitting Bull's camp that he is within eight miles of Buford and coming in charge of the scout Legare. Capt. Clifford has gone out to receive his surrender. A special says the Indians are almost starved and all are discouraged. Five chiefs and 200 bucks, women and children are in the band.

Hanged.

CORINTH, Miss., July 19.—Henry S. Smith, who killed James Burdin in April, 1880, was hanged here this afternoon.

A Strikers' Row

PEORIA, Ill., July 19.—Nicholas Morville was fatally shot and several others wounded in a fight among brakemen at the Union yard here to-day, caused by an unpopular yard master importing men from St. Louis to replace strikers.

Patricide.

PITTSBURG, July 19.—Lizzie Stevenson, an insane girl living near here, stabbed her father in the stomach and killed him while he was trying to pacify her.

Lynch Law.

NASHVILLE, July 19.—A mob has taken Houston Turner (colored) last night from the Murfreesboro jail intending to hang him.

Business View

NEW YORK, July 19.—The [illegible] in a financial article states that the present depression in stocks is the result of [illegible] by large owners of trunk lines. A point of interest is now when shall it suit Vanderbilt to use his influence to stop the trunk line war. The [illegible] in the general condition of railroad interests of the country which bodes [illegible] and the speculative [illegible] Wall street is more dependent on Vanderbilt than on anything else.

Disastrous Fire in Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., [illegible] Wieting Opera [illegible] hands most [illegible] early this morning. It was [illegible] hours. It is the most disastrous [illegible] Syracuse [illegible] wards [illegible] block [illegible] valued at [illegible] cipal losers [illegible] dealers [illegible] galls & Co., [illegible] 000. ALBANY, July 19.—The bill providing for filling vacancies in congress was [illegible] slight amendments ordered to a third reading.

Prospects for an Election

ALBANY, July 19.—Indications are that there will be an election to-morrow. [illegible] administration do not look for it before the [illegible]. It requires a secession of three or four Conklingites and it is not possible to find them as yet. Both sections of republicans are [illegible] ship. Some private consultations are [illegible] Conklingites engage in them.

Outside Capitalists buying Depressed Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Commercial Bulletin says the bears in stocks had everything their way in Wall street to-day but there were [illegible] orders to buy dividend paying stocks [illegible] of outside capitalists who rarely venture into Wall street except at times of great depression when they buy and take away stocks to hold for recovery.

Certain Books Admitted Free

The treasury department decides that journalists can bring certain books for their libraries into the United States free of duty. It is understood that this decision is based on a clause in the revised statutes admitting "tools of trade" free of duty.

Hotel Burned

NEW YORK, July 19.—The [illegible] House at Long Branch was destroyed by fire to-day. Many guests lost all their effects. The hotel property is partly insured.

Cotton Exchange Convention

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The fifth convention of the national cotton exchange will meet at the Southern Hotel here to-morrow.

Consolidation of Iron Interests.

The announcement of the consolidation of several very large iron interests in this state is now said to have been premature. The actual consolidation has not yet taken place, but negotiations are pending.

Prominent Georgian Killed

ATLANTA, Ga., July 19.—To-day Col. R. Holt, while standing in the depot, was struck by a train and instantly killed. He was one of the wealthiest men in the state and a prominent republican politician.

Proposed "High Jinks" in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, July 19.—Business men of this city have arranged for a grand Mardi Gras festival next October in connection with the formal celebration of the completion of the new water works. It is intended to make it rival last year's.

National Educational Association.

ATLANTA, July 19.—The national educational association met here to-day. An address of welcome was made by Governor Colquitt. U. S. Commissioner of Education Eaton spoke on education, and after other prominent educationalists spoke a grand banquet was given by citizens. A hundred delegates from thirty states are present.

The McPherson Statue.

TOLEDO, O., July 19.—The committee of arrangements for unveiling the McPherson statue at Clyde, Ohio, Friday report most sanguine expectations will be exceeded. Gen. Sherman will unveil the statue in the unavoidable absence of Gen. Grant.

Murderous Affray.

DENVER, Col., July 19.—A Kokomo special says: In a shooting scrape this morning John D. Morrison was shot through the lung and Dennis M. D[illegible] shot through the thigh and badly beaten about the head. Both men are in a precarious condition. Thomas Gilligan, Charles Madden and Thomas Lowry were arrested on charge of [illegible] the deed. Cause not known.

WASHINGTON CITY

Treasury Matters

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Secretary Windom has gone to Deer Park for a few days.

The treasury department to-day ordered the transfer of $5,000,000 in gold bullion from the New York assay office to the Philadelphia mint to be coined into eagles and half eagles. This makes about [illegible] 000,000 in bullion similarly transferred during the present month.

The secretary of the treasury has [illegible] bonds [illegible]

Potatoes and Tobacco

The following reports show [illegible] department [illegible]

Tobacco—the acreage [illegible] of last year, particularly in Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky, but in view of the large increase of 1880 in these states, owing to the scarcity of plants the area will not be greater this year than in 1879, the year in which the area was given for the census of 1880. The condition of the crop is reported higher than last year at the same time.

Death of Col. Michler

Lieut. Col. Nathaniel Michler died at Saratoga Springs yesterday.

The Governor of Texas Does not wish to Interfere in Church Matters.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 19.—The governor of Texas sends the following to Governor Foster: "My failure to answer you favorably was not on account of any want of sympathy for the president but because I do not deem it consistent with my position as governor to issue a proclamation directing religious services when church and state are and ought to be kept separate in their functions. I doubt not the people of Texas have as strongly wished and will as devoutly pray for the recovery of the president as any people in the United States.

O. M. ROBERTS,
Governor.

NAUGHTY NAVAJOES

After a Preacher Agent's Scalp.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The Times special from Santa Fe says: Alarming reports reach here from the Navajoe reservation. Some time ago Galen Eastman, a minister of the Presbyterian church, had by a series of ill timed and ill advised acts so excited the Navajoes that they threatened him and demanded a new agent. The interior department to quiet them suspended Eastman and turned the agency over to Capt. Bennett, of the 9th cavalry, who possesses much influence with the savages. Capt. Bennett's administration soon settled the restless Indians, and during the past year, with the exception of occasionally getting drunk and stealing some stock, they have given no trouble. A few days ago Rev. Galen Eastman again appeared on the scene with orders from the interior department to relieve Capt. Bennett and take charge of the agency. He immediately gave offense to the Navajoes and they commenced to hold a powwow and show their dissatisfaction. The commanding officer at Fort Wingate reports to district headquarters that the Navajoes are restless, are assembling armed and mounted and demand the immediate recall of Eastman and want Capt. Bennett back as their agent, who they say will not steal and will treat them justly.

There are not sufficient troops in New Mexico to keep them quiet should they be inclined to revolt. Officers at Wingate believe they will kill Eastman unless the government speedily removes him. It is reported that his first move was an endeavor to make the Indians go to church and stop using tobacco. They number at least 20,000 souls and are the only tribe that is increasing. There seems little doubt among well informed persons that should Eastman remain he will share Meeker's fate.

A Foul Pair.

SANTA FE, July 19.—A foul murder is just unearthed at a point 20 miles north of Farmington, N. M. The crime was prompted by undue intimacy between T. P. Jennings and Mrs. Lewis, wife of the victim. On the 8th inst. Jennings, at the instigation of his paramour, murdered Lewis, their intention being to go to Missouri and get married. The murder was a few days after unearthed and the guilty pair arrested.

AN INDIAN BARBACUE.

How Whisky Affects a Redskin.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 19.—The Gazette's Fort Smith special says: Greenleaf, near Fort Gibson, in the Cherokee nation, a point about 140 miles west of Fort Smith, was the scene of a horrible tragedy on Saturday. The Creek and Cherokee Indians were having a barbecue preparatory to nominating their candidates for the ensuing election next month. Whisky flowed as freely as milk and honey in the promised land. Two full blooded Indians, Bill [illegible] and Deertrack, became fighting drunk and made an onslaught on some of the party. Seven men were killed or mortally wounded. Jim Satterwait and his father were first shot and then had their heads completely severed from their bodies by the crazed demons. The murderers are at large, no effort being made to arrest them.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Boundary Line to be Settled.

BUENOS AYRES, June [illegible].—American ministers here and at Santiago, Chili, have [illegible] all difficulties attending the settlement of the boundary question between Chili and the Argentine Republic. The two governments have agreed to [illegible] the settlement by a treaty [illegible] majority in the Chili and Argentine [illegible] support the treaty.

Words of Warning

CORK, July 19.—Justice Barry, in opening the assizes, said the [illegible] alarm.

A Revolutionary Meeting

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Herald's London special says: The meeting convened to-night by the revolutionary congress was crowded to excess with an enthusiastic audience of both sexes. The first resolution, declaring that the time for agitation by means of the press and platform had passed and that the time is now come for force, was moved by [illegible] Count, delegate from the United States. Louise Michel of Paris seconded three resolutions, which was supported by a large number of delegates from various countries and was unanimously carried.

A Fanatical Set.

LONDON, July 19.—At a meeting calling itself a Revolutionary Congress, held in London last night, delegates from various parts of Europe and America, representing the various [illegible] parties identified with Herr Most, the imprisoned [illegible], were present. About 1000 were in attendance, mostly workmen. Red flags were displayed. Mrs. [illegible], an American lady delegate, described the disappointments of small farmers going west depending on illusory promises of emigrant agents and how great agitation is the possession of railways, oppress the laborers and raise the price of food in seaboard states. Louise Michel, the announced French communist, then spoke, and male delegates from America, Switzerland and Germany [illegible]. Prince Krapotkine, the Russian socialist, applauded the assassination of several Russian generals. It transpired during the proceedings that the socialist [illegible] Zurich is [illegible] sitting secretly in London.

An Irish Guiteau.

LONDON, July 19.—An Irishman aged 18 named Patrick Kilfour [illegible] was arraigned at Bow street court to-day and remanded for threatening to kill Right Hon. Wm. E. Forster, chief secretary of Ireland, unless he relieved Irish subjects and resigned his office.

Death of Dean Stanley

LONDON, July 19.—Dean Stanley died to-day.

LONDON, July 19.—[illegible] Patti will give [illegible]

Directors [illegible] Lord Lathom, Count Gleichen and Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild. The capital stock of the company is 100,000 pounds.

Regarding the new opera scheme it is said about the sum paid Mapleson which it would seem that Gye owned both companies. Mapleson contracts to transact the company's American business for 10 years.

Train Robberies—An English View

The Standard in an editorial says: The robberies on a railroad train in America, an account of which is published to-day, although by no means an uncommon occurrence, happens as an opportunity of tending us to reply to American critics upon the danger of the English plan of separate compartments. American cars seem specially made to invite this kind of outrage. With the English system such a wholesale raid is impossible. In any case one carriage alone could be robbed before passengers and officials could organize a resistance. As there is no example of such an event in our railway history we may assume that the difficulty and dangers are so great as to deter the most daring criminal. The actual danger of murder and robbery is far less on English lines than on American.

Bond Holders Meeting.

A large meeting of Turkish bond holders to-day formally request the former under foreign Secretary (Bourke) to go to Constantinople to arrange the Turkish debt in the interest of the bond holders.

Pending Combinations.

BERLIN, July 19.—The subject of the incorporation of Bremen with the Zollverein will come before the federal council next autumn. There is no probability that Bremen will reserve compensation. Connection between extreme conservatives and ultramontanes is becoming daily more pronounced.

Scobeleff's Mission.

BERLIN, July 19.—The statement that Gen. Scobeleff went to Paris to sound France in regard to Russian alliance is confirmed here. Gen. Scobeleff's overtures, however, failed.

Newspaper Office Sacked

BERLIN, July 19.—The Jew baiters of New Stettin, angered at the denunciations of the New Stettin Zeitung, severely assaulted the editor, sacked some shops and demolished the Zeitung office. Over 30 rioters were arrested.

The Russian Chinese Treaty.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 19.—The contents of the Russian Chinese treaty have been kept secret, but from an article in the Turkistan [illegible], which is likely to be correct in regard to the administration of the frontier, it appears that China regains Kuldja, the province for the cession of which Chung How was disgraced.

Nihilists' Work

A detective, sent to watch a select meeting at Kieff, was killed. Similar murders [illegible] Russian provinces, whither the nihilists have transferred their activity from the capital.

Water Panic in Paris.

PARIS, July 19.—Something very like a panic has been caused by the official announcement that in consequence of the phenomenally hot weather prevailing here the water supply of Paris is running short. At best of times it is utterly inadequate to meet the wants of the populace. The whole water supply of the city amounts to 380,000 cubic inches daily, and M. Arphand declares it will be probably six years before the existing state of things can be remedied.

The Don Protests

PARIS, July 19.—Don Carlos formally protested against his expulsion from France as being uncalled for by any act on his part. Don Carlos has started for England.

Killed and Wounded

PARIS, July 19.—A dispatch from Sfax reports that during the bombardment and capture 400 Arabs were killed and 400 wounded. [illegible] is much disturbed.

A Bloody Fight

PARIS, July 19.—A dispatch from Tunis states that there was an engagement on Saturday near Sfax. The insurgent leader, 300 natives of Sfax and 200 Arab horsemen are reported killed.

The Bey's Camels on the War Path

LONDON, July 19.—A dispatch from Tunis says that Arab horsemen state that the bey's camels are scouring the country and have attacked a farm house ten miles from Tunis. Natives throughout the country are greatly excited and disturbances are feared. The bey is preparing to send native troops to the interior, but it is doubtful whether they will fight the Arabs.

Attempt to kill

ATHENS, July 19.—An unsuccessful attempt was made last evening to shoot two editors of the anti-ministerial papers on a public promenade. The perpetrator was arrested, but two supposed accomplices escaped.

Given to the Boers.

[illegible], July 19.—It has been agreed to give the [illegible] Transvaal to the Boers.

Very Hot in England.

LONDON, July 19.—The heat continues here and at Paris. In [illegible] the water supply is limited and watering streets has been discontinued.

Conkling and the Stalwart Assassin.

[New York Tribune.]

Mr. Conkling has done everything in his power to destroy the character of the brave and true statesman who lies at the door of death. He has accused him of falsehood, gross and habitual bad faith, of ambition, cowardice and base treachery to his party and has spared no pains to make the people believe that the republican party was being ruined and the republic itself was being endangered solely by the bad conduct and bad faith of the president. Well, one stalwart says he believed it. He believed it so much that to use his own words he looked upon the killing of the president as "a political necessity."

A handsome monument is being erected over the grave of Hon. David Logan in Marion county. The structure is about 14 feet high and of Rhode Island granite made in that state and shipped here. It is a very massive structure weighing 6½ tons.

Last Friday Hubbard Harrison made an assault on J. B. P. Pittle at St. Paul by firing at him three times with a revolver. Monday he was arraigned for trial before Justice J. Gibson of Salem, District Attorney Piper and J. J. Murphy appearing for the state. After the evidence on the part of the prosecution was introduced the defendant waived his right to make a statement and was bound over by the court to await the action of the grand jury in the sum of $500, in default of which he was committed to jail.

A man was found dead on the ocean beach opposite [illegible] on the 18th instant by Seth Hilmer. With the assistance of several others the body was placed in a pine coffin and decently buried near the place where found, and the facts in the case together with the following description of the remains was sent to the county judge at Astoria: Height six feet, fair complexion, light hair and a light moustache. He had four shirts on—one heavy red woolen overshirt, one check overshirt, one new white shirt and one blue flannel undershirt, one pair blue flannel drawers, a pair cassimere pants (dark plaid), a pair of No. 9 shoes [illegible] description on his body and nothing in the pockets of his clothes. From appearances he had been dead several weeks.

The new bridge at Ashland cost $1650 [illegible], of which Jackson county paid two thirds and the town of Ashland one third.

A large amount of agricultural machinery has been sold in Ashland this summer, some of it to Lake county ranchers.

The berry of this year's crop of wheat in Jackson county is much larger and more plump and smooth than last year's wheat. Ripening slowly has been advantageous for it.

[illegible], daughter of Chris. Farlow, of Ashland, died on the 11th inst. after a long and painful illness, aged 13 years. She had suffered for some years with hip disease and lately consumption supervened.

A heavy frost occurred at Lost river gap and Bonanza, Lake county, on the night of the 5th, which almost totally annihilated vegetation in that section. One farmer alone had over 100 acres of rye destroyed. In the vicinity of Linkville the damage done was slight and grain seems to be doing well.

In about two weeks the workmen at Rock Point will begin to [illegible] at the outer end of the line of cribs [illegible] the gap between the crib and shore will be by that time closed. The last appropriation was so small that no other will be required to complete the line so as to fairly test the plan of the work.

While Mrs. Bolt, wife of the postmaster of Applegate, was on her way to pay a neighbor a visit last Tuesday she was ferociously attacked by a large eagle. Nothing daunted she picked up a limb and hit the bird a blow on the head, stunning it, and following up her advantage soon dispatched it. The eagle measured over seven feet between the tips of the wings.

Higgins, who murdered McCloskey at [illegible] Point, Coos county, on the 4th inst., is still at large in the mountains between Coos bay and Roseburg. A reward of $500 has been offered by the sheriff of Coos for his arrest. To this private citizens on the Coquille have added $250. He has several times made requisition on [illegible] settlers for supplies. He is barely 21 years old, six feet high and [illegible] except a light mustache.

Mr. [illegible], who lives eight miles southeast of Lewiston, informs us that the grasshoppers are very thick about his place and that he has decided it prudent to cut his wheat for hay, fearing their ravages before the grain would ripen.

A shooting scrape is reported in Greasewood precinct, Umatilla county, wherein two men named Switzer and [illegible] Kinney were principals and both were severely wounded. The latter is a school teacher and his offense consisted in desiring to marry a young lady who was a ward of the former. It is thought that Kinney's wounds will prove fatal.

A Canyon City correspondent under date of July 16th writes: Major Joseph Magone, who is well known to old Oregonians, started out several days since for a hunt for elk. Being separated from his party a search was made for him. His animals (four in number) were found tied at a point about five miles east from Soda springs and distant from this place about twenty five miles. It is evident that the animals had been tied for about two days. Three days search has been made and the impression is that he has got lost or met with some accident.

GOV. HUBBARD'S DAUGHTER

How the Girl who Eloped with a Coachman is Getting Along

[Hartford Letter.]

The romantic story of the elopement of Miss Nellie Hubbard, daughter of ex-Gov. Hubbard, with the family coachman, Frank Shepard, which went the rounds of the press two years ago, should be supplemented now by the true story of the life of the young married couple, in order that they may have the light rather than that it should go abroad that Shepard himself was indeed so shiftless a fellow that he could not provide for the support of a wife.

Soon after the marriage Shepard and his wife went to board with his brother in this city and Nellie occasionally went to her father's to see her mother and sisters, but it was understood that under no circumstances would her husband ever be allowed to darken the doors of the Hubbard mansion. Meantime Shepard obtained employment as a salesman in a retail [illegible] and there he remained for about three months, and then both himself and wife disappeared [illegible]

Not only is the former coachman doing well in his business, but he is conducting himself like a man in other ways, and his wife is reported to be happy. She is seen frequently driving in her phaeton through the shady city of elms, and it is understood is kindly received by very many of her old friends in New Haven, among whom are some of the first young ladies in the place. Once in a while she comes to Hartford and is noticed as being in perfect health and looking prettier than ever. She keeps up a thoroughly stylish appearance and has money enough from her husband to warrant it all, which proves that she is not living in poverty, as thousands of people all over the country, who have become interested in her welfare, will be happy to learn.

Ex-Gov. Hubbard intends going to Europe with his family this summer, but Nellie will enjoy herself at the watering places along the shore close to New Haven and possibly by and by will accompany her husband when he gets rich enough to foreign lands. When Uncle John dies and leaves Shepard a fortune, the coachman may like to travel as well as his father in law.

MR. TILDEN TALKS

He Sorrows with the Sorrowing and Draws a Lesson.

A New York Tribune reporter said to Mr. Tilden: What was your impression when you first received the news?

I received the information of the attempt to assassinate the president with incredulity, which soon changed into horror.

What did you think of it from a national point of view?

This: Our young American civilization and our system of elective constitutional government cannot afford the frequent recurrence of attempts to change the administration of government and the possession of individual political power by the act of an assassin. I don't mean to say that our 50,000,000 of people can in any way be made responsible for the crime of a single integer of that vast aggregate. Of course such acts may happen in any country or any age, but the consequences are none the less calculated to fill with dismay and disgust the whole community and to weaken the confidence in a system like our own, where they are less excusable than anywhere else in the world.

What effect do you think the attempt will have?

At present we are all filled not only with concern for the public effects of such a crime but with sympathy for the distinguished victim, his family and his immediate friends. It is too early to moralize upon the subject, but two things are so obvious that they cannot escape consideration even now. The first is the greatest peril that attends the enormous and increasing power of the chief executive magistracy. It addresses temptations too strong for public safety to the interests and passions of millions of persons.

"Do you refer to the civil service?"

Partly only. More particularly this. The putting up periodically at the end of every four years of the vast power of the government of 50,000,000 people, the enormous expenditure that it involves and the redistribution of the 100,000 offices as a raffle in which the whole people actively participate must be fruitful of evils yet unseen. Civil commotions, fraud and violence are the natural results.

What is the second consideration to which you referred?

The second one, perhaps, grows out of the first. It is the unbounded licentiousness that characterizes our party competitions and political dissensions, the assassination of private character and the unscrupulous methods resorted to to influence the public judgment. All good men of all parties ought to do their utmost to limit and restrain these mischiefs. The undue stimulus to mad passions arms the hand of the eccentric individual who assumes to himself to work out results, perhaps under the insane ambition for a notoriety of infamy. But I turn from the subject with a feeling that now, when every public sensibility and every private sympathy is deeply wounded, I am not equal to drawing the lessons which the deplorable event suggests to our people. Let us hope that President Garfield's recovery will relieve to a great degree the public evils of this assassination, while it will remove the weight of the private bereavement which fills us all with concern and sympathy.

LITTLE BROWN JUG PACES FASTEST THREE HEATS ON RECORD

Hanlan willing to Row Ross in American Waters—The Summer Meeting at Chicago—Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE [illegible] NEWS

CHICAGO, July 19.—[illegible] quarter [illegible] fourth heat [illegible] Edward [illegible] second [illegible]

CHICAGO, July 19.—This was the first day of the summer trotting meeting at the Chicago driving park. The attendance was large, the weather delightful and the track in fine condition. The first event was for a purse of $[illegible] [illegible] fastest heat [illegible]. Following is the summary:

B[illegible] S[illegible]	1 1 [illegible]
Edward Thorne	4 1 [illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible]
Jewett	4 [illegible] 4
Kate Sprague	[illegible]
Minnie H	[illegible]

Time [illegible]

Second race, pacing for 2:20 class, purse $1500, with $500 extra to horse making faster than 2:16¼:

Little Brown Jug	1 1 1
Billy Scott	2 2 2
Wonderful	4 4 [illegible]
Baldwin Hornet	[illegible]
Ned Forrester	5 5 ro

Time—2:12¾, 2:14[illegible], 2:11¾.

the best three pacing heats on record. Little Brown Jug might easily have beaten the best pacing record of 2:10, but that on the home stretch he eased up on first heat. He will on Saturday try to beat the record for a special purse of $1,000.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The heats of the great race open to all stallions were sandwiched between those of the 2:2[illegible] class, the first being trotted after the first heats of the class named. The fact that it took six heats to decide that it was won by a horse that had not trotted a race before this season, cutting three seconds from his record in the fourth heat, that the pool buyers were on their heels up to the outcome from first to last—all these make it go without saying that it was a race well worth witnessing. Six horses responded to the call from the judges' stand and drew positions as follows: Piedmont, the pole; Monroe Chief 2d, Hannis 3d, Wedgewood 4th, McGregor 5th, and Santa Claus, the favorite, outside. As they jogged up the quarter stretch they were a grand looking lot, every one of them seeming in excellent trim and moving superbly except Monroe Chief, who had a sort of shuffle not natural to him when at himself. Piedmont showed up in his first [illegible] strong flesh but appeared hard and hearty and [illegible] any of them. At the fourth attempt they were given the word with Santa Claus a length ahead. He was soon joined by Piedmont. They went round the turn like a team to the quarter at a [illegible] gait. Along the far side Turner sent Hannis into third place, passing Wedgwood and McGregor like a bullet. The three leaders formed as pretty a bunch for a quarter of a mile as one could wish to see. In the meantime Santa Claus had taken the lead by half a length over Piedmont, but on the third turn [illegible] and once more [illegible] Hannis having dropped back to the third place a length away, while Wedgwood and McGregor were two lengths behind him at the three quarters pole. In the stretch it was a race between Santa Claus and Piedmont coming side and side, with Hannis outside of them and half a length back. Just then it was seen that McGregor had shaken Wedgwood off and was coming at a terrible clip. His straight course lay between Hannis and Santa Claus. [illegible]

[illegible]

For the third heat some difficulty was experienced on account of Monroe Chief's inability to score up. They were sent off with him trailing. Santa Claus broke before the turn was reached and was not thereafter out for the heat. Crawford at once lifted McGregor forward and he took the lead at the turn with Hannis at the wheel and Wedgewood coming fast and lead in the third place. At the quarter along the far side Splan sent Wedgewood up into the second place, lapped on McGregor past the half and around the lower turn they went this way. At the three quarter pole Piedmont had a lead in front with McGregor and Wedgewood together. Down the stretch, however, the pace became too hot for Wedgewood and he was in the air at the distance. McGregor won by a half length over Hannis, whom Turner sent with a rush as soon as he struck the straight road home. Piedmont 3d, Wedgewood 4th, Santa Claus 5th, and Monroe Chief last. Time 2:18¾.

Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, July 19.—First race, Alabama stakes, 1¼ miles: Thora first, Bonnie Lizzie second, Bramatella third. Won by four lengths. Time, 1:59[illegible].

SARATOGA, July 19.—Second race, flash stakes, half mile—Memento 1st, Flight 2d, Nightcap 3d. Time [illegible]. Won by two lengths.

The Apthorpe Stakes

LONDON, July 19.—The race for Apthorpe stakes at Huntington was won by Beatrice. Keene's Brake spear second, Cairngorm third.

Hanlan willing to Row.

TORONTO, July 19.—Hanlan says he will row Wallace Ross whenever he likes for $1000 if he is offered additional stakes by the city or town in the proximity of the course where the race is to take place. Hanlan considers it all very well for Ross to challenge him when he knows he can make more than the stakes where he proposes to row out of railways and privileges, but if Ross likes he will row him in U. S. waters for $1000 at any place designated.

A Challenge.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Peter B. Rouse, a burly miner from Colorado, 6 feet high, 190 pounds weight, a notoriously rough and tumble fighter, issued a challenge to John L. Sullivan of Boston and Paddy Ryan of Troy to fight him at catch weights according to the rules of the London prize ring, for from $1000 to $5000 a side and the heavy weight championship of America, the fight to be decided in Wyoming, Dakota or Utah six months from signing the articles. Should the eastern champions decline, the challenge is open to all comers, but the stakes must be $1000, forfeit of $200 sent on with challenge.

OUR EXPORTS.

It is certainly gratifying to all true Americans to know that of late years our exports have largely exceeded our imports, not alone in such staple articles as wheat and beef, but in almost every branch of industry. Ten years ago nearly all the perfumes and toilet articles used in this country were imported from Europe; to-day we not only manufacture for ourselves but are large exporters to South America, China, Japan and the Colonies. The immense growth of this particular industry on the Pacific Coast is simply astonishing. Steven, who is now one of the largest [illegible] makers in the world, last year exported some 2,000,000 bottles of his famous Yosemite Cologne. For sale by Woodard, Clarke & Co., Portland, Oregon.

Locomotive No. 2, which had so long a bath at the mouth of the Puyallup river, is very thoroughly dismembered, her parts being scattered over the shop in the hands of many workmen who are filing off the rust. Some of its parts were rust eaten to such an extent that it was necessary to file away nearly a sixteenth of an inch.

LETTER FROM LANE COUNTY

General Outlook of Crops—Hints and Suggestions to Farmers and Stockraisers.

[illegible]

[illegible] so much hay will be put in store [illegible] to the Portland market during the winter [illegible]

The conviction is fast forcing itself upon agriculturists in this county [illegible] that with no [illegible] freights as is made from this place and other points north and with no river advantages to speak of, that they cannot afford to pay what is asked for transportation, as it takes fully one third of their cereal products to take it to market. To a careful observer it may be seen that a crisis is approaching. The majority of farmers in this county are discouraged with low prices for grain and are [illegible] to see their land, but recently virgin soil, apparently exhausted and as foul as it can possibly be. Summer fallowing is being tried very extensively, as it is claimed that the soil needs rest, yet with all of this there is, generally speaking, a third of the crop even on summer fallow that is wild oats and other obnoxious weeds, and even with the best that can be done in the way of fall work, little progress is made towards clearing the land of wild oats. Of course it is easy to see that when land is tilled one half of the farm each year [illegible] taxes, while the farmer claims that he can make more from the remainder than he could in former years by using the whole farm to wheat. Perhaps he can realize more himself, but what of the other portion of our citizens, viz., the business men and mechanics and artisans and laborers that depend so much on land owners for a living?

If one half of the cultivatable land [illegible] our farmers for a few years [illegible] have two thirds of the farming population it has now at present [illegible]

The adaptability of [illegible] land [illegible] make it the garden spot of Oregon, or for that matter of the northwest coast, as it has a variety of [illegible] that no other portion of our state can afford. There are [illegible] of acres of [illegible] hill land that [illegible] first class pasture for thousands of sheep could be put in good condition by clearing and seeding with grass. Mr. [illegible], of Creswell, who is a capitalist, has slashed and burned over 200 acres of land and seeded it to grass, and says that he thinks it will pay him better and much less worry and care than that of letting his money out at interest at 1 or 2 per cent.

Catarrhal
[illegible]

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1 That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local and [illegible] constitutional.

2 That, being constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3 That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4 That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhoea, Bronchitis, Leucorrhoea, and Consumption.

5 That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations and Insoluble Snuffs cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6 That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

The Daily Oregonian

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1881.

A PITIFUL SPECTACLE.

If the personal followers of Roscoe Conkling in the legislature of New York had the least sense of propriety or decency remaining they would give up the hopeless attempt to save his sinking fortunes, would assert their independence, show that they were no longer slaves, and prove to the country that they had a better sense of their own responsibility than to remain in the degradation of abject personal servitude in which their devotion to their "boss" has placed them. But this, probably, is too much to expect. Obedient followers there will ever be to minister with servile humility to the arrogance of the "boss." These are the two parts of the system. Each is the despicable complement of the other. The New York Evening Post says of the disgraceful Albany situation: "Mr. Conkling is reported to be a very proud man. It seems to us that a man with even a trace of proper pride would refuse to countenance the state of affairs at Albany, even if he was wholly free from responsibility for bringing it about in the first instance. In the actual circumstances Mr. Conkling's position in the fight is simply indecent. He knows, everybody knows, that he has but to give the word and the body-guard of members of the legislature who have surrounded him for six weeks will dissolve. He refuses to give the word. What but coarse insensibility and a mean and narrow egotism which is utterly inconsistent with worthy pride seals his lips?"

This blind adherence to Conkling's personal fortunes well shows, as another journal expresses it, to what a depth of degradation politics may be carried by the kind of men who are brought to the surface by the spoils system. It would be a gross calumny to say that Conkling's henchmen at Albany are typical Americans. They are nothing of the kind. They belong to the vile venal brood that is hatched out by that system through which Conkling lives and breathes. They are the products of the "machine," and their present conduct should serve to convince all self-respecting men that the system which produces such vermin must be destroyed.

The utter vileness and ignominy of this whole affair may be illustrated by a supposed case. Suppose that in the year of grace 1789, one of the senators from Massachusetts had resigned from the United States senate in a huff, because Washington had appointed as collector at Boston a perfectly competent man, but one who was distasteful to the senator; and not only had himself resigned, but also had compelled his brother senator (they were equals in those days), to resign likewise; and that both had gone off with a flourish of trumpets which brayed forth the intention of allowing the "sovereign people" of Massachusetts to "vindicate" their course; and suppose further, that John Adams (the vice-president) had hurried off to Boston as soon as he decently (or indecently) could, to lobby in the legislature in full view of Bunker Hill, "like a common ward politician" to force a return to the senate of the man whose henchman he was, who had gone back to "lobby" for his "vindication," and whom he abetted in his determination to usurp the rights and powers of the executive; suppose also that the self-decapitated senator, finding he had made a mistake, that he had only a few followers, and that he could not possibly be re-elected, nevertheless persisted, not, however, with an idea that he would obtain the "vindication" he had set out for, but solely for the malicious purpose of effecting ruin since he could not rule; suppose all this as a true index of the statesmanship of the time, and can any sane man suppose that the republic would have lived to see the year of grace 1881?

To the indecency of this entire proceeding the history of our politics has never furnished a parallel. It is the culmination of a most abominable system. By his vanity, conceit and arrogance Conkling has accomplished his own political destruction and at the same time has succeeded in bringing upon the system of political immorality of which he stands as the leading representative, the detestation of the country. After all his conduct is productive of good results. He could not have focalized and concentrated this detestation upon the boss and spoils system in any other way. So while the country is rid of Conkling this episode will help to rid it of Conklingism, which is of more consequence still.

MR. TILDEN ON THE SPOILS SYSTEM.

We present in another place some remarks made by Mr. Samuel J. Tilden on the attempted assassination of the president. Though few people, as an eastern paper observes in its comments on these remarks, consider Mr. Tilden the most scrupulous of men in political matters, there are none who question his sagacity. He is not merely a shrewd politician and skillful wire-puller; but in connection with his "uncommon anxiety" for office, he has an uncommonly acute perception of the tendencies of the times. It may be remembered that, at the opening of the present administration, when there was a momentary "era of good feeling," and fair-weather prophets were predicting all sorts of millenial joys, Mr. Tilden ventured the assertion that Mr. Garfield would have the stormiest period of rule since the close of the war. Although he could not have foreseen the troubles ahead, his practical eye doubtless discerned the elements of disagreement which later broke out into mutiny and open war. As then, so now, his opinion merely as a publicman, in a matter where his own interests are not concerned, is deserving of respect. It is very worthy of notice that he does not follow the lead of other so-called democratic statesmen, and whenever his opinion is asked on the cause of any evil rattle off a neat little formula about the tendency of our government toward centralization. He is not now talking to create party capital; and inasmuch as there is no prospect that he will ever be called upon to test the sincerity of his opinions by action, he can afford to be unreserved. Speaking no longer as a possible prospective candidate, but as a citizen of age and experience, he declares that the evil which lies at the root of present calamity and future danger is in the periodical redistribution of 100,000 offices, on no settled principle whatever. In fact, at this time, there is a remarkable unanimity of opinion respecting the spoils system. Those who have opposed it and those who have profited by it protest with equal vigor against its deleterious consequences. But aside from those who join in the hue and cry only to escape unharmed with their plunder, the great body of the American people are thoroughly convinced that an immediate change in methods of appointment is a national necessity. The spoils system not only degrades men who might have been respectably useful into worthless place-hunters, and emasculates the public service, but it imperils the man on whom it thrusts the responsibility of appointment, and saps the foundations of our institutions at home and our credit abroad. Now that its strenuous supporters have discovered that it may turn, and, in more than one way, fight against them, perhaps they too may not wholly refuse to aid in its extermination. Mr. Tilden's views are the more valuable from the fact that he is the ablest living exponent of the policy of the party that invented the spoils system.

The New York Herald publishes tables showing the movement of foreign emigrants to the United States during the last sixty years. Germany has furnished during this period 3,159,072, Ireland 3,137,364, and the Scandinavian countries 510,928. Summing up its tables, the Herald finds that from 1783 to 1880 the British Islands have sent us 4,842,757, continental Europe 4,650,055, Asia 233,876, British America 703,703, West Indies 61,558, Mexico 25,224, Central and South America 19,039, Africa 1554, and the Pacific Islands 75,230. Adding this year's arrivals the world has contributed about 11,000,000 to our population during the past century, and still there is room for more.

A Victoria paper says that British Columbia's standing grievance against the Dominion government is non-construction of the island railway. It was a silly thing to agree to build such a railway, for after it is completed it can not compete with water transportation. Why a railroad should be wanted from Victoria to Nanaimo, right alongside a deep tidewater channel, where there isn't business enough for one steamer a day, is one of the wonders, unless we suppose our northern neighbors simply want the money the road would cost spent among them.

A special agent sent out by the president to ascertain the attitude of the Mormons toward the government reports them as determined to resist every attempt to enforce the law against polygamy. The prediction is made that it will require an army of 100,000 men to hold them in subjection, as they are spreading over the territories from Wyoming to New Mexico, and have become self-sustaining in the rich valleys in which they have settled.

A Rhode Island man's project is to build an artificial mountain in New York, or at least the framework of one, with a platform at the top broad enough to hold a big hotel and extensive grounds. His idea is to make a summer resort accessible from the city by means of elevators, and combining the qualities of seashore and mountain. The proposed height is 1000 feet. The only obstacle is the lack of $3,000,000 capital.

Mr. T. H. Crawford says the secretary of the teachers' institute is certainly mistaken in his statement that the resolutions relating to spelling reform, so-called, were adopted. Mr. Crawford was himself in the chair and put the motion, which was lost, though only a few of those present voted on the question.

Elbridge G. Lapham, whom Conkling is trying to keep out of the senate, is 67 years of age; has been a civil engineer and lawyer; was a member of the New York constitutional convention of 1867; has been four times elected to Congress, and is a solid, sensible and practical man.

There are 1160 Young Men's Christian Associations in the United States and 2400 in the world. A world's convention of delegates from the various associations is to be held in London from July 30 to August 4, and is expected to be a gathering of great interest.

The capacity of the steel works of the world is 3,000,000 tons a year. The Bessemer works in England contribute 800,000 tons; the United States 800,750; Germany 500,000, France 375,000; Belgium 150,000. Austria 250,000; and Russia and Sweden about 150,000.

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING. JULY 20, 1881.

OREGONIAN AT THE RESORTS.—Parties can have THE DAILY OREGONIAN sent to them at any of the seaside resorts, at $1 per month, on leaving their address at the business office of this paper.

OREGONIAN AT ASTORIA.—Extra copies of the DAILY at E. C. Holden's, for the accommodation of visitors.

CITY.

ATTEMPTED KIDNAPPING.—Tuesday about 1 o'clock a half-breed made an attempt to kidnap Eugene Perreault, a two year old son of Mr. Chas. Perreault living at No. 287 North Ninth street. His little sister saw the half-breed leading her little brother away, when she gave the alarm to her mother, who started in pursuit after her child. Mr. Perreault armed himself with a pistol and also gave chase. The kidnapper seeing the mother so closely pursuing him, dropped the child and in his rapid flight lost his hat. The mother returned with her child and the father followed the half-breed with his pistol. The fellow was just entering a thick clump of [illegible] with the child when the mother rescued him. The kidnapper was a stranger to those who saw him and it is not known where he was going to take the child. After Mr. Perreault had followed several blocks in hot pursuit he was obliged to return without his man. It would not have been healthy for the half-breed had he been overtaken by the much exasperated father. The police were informed of the matter and are on the lookout for the would-be kidnapper.

MR. M. L. HALLENBECK'S ADDRESS TO-NIGHT.—This evangelist, so well and so favorably known by our citizens, will be present at the regular hour of service to-night at the Y. M. C. A. Singing services will commence at 7:45. Many persons who failed to hear this gentleman relate his experience and conversion will be pleased to learn that Mr. Hallenbeck, —at the request of many friends,—will repeat that interesting and deeply affecting chapter of his history. That none may be deprived of seating accommodations, who were not present at the previous delivery of this address, self denial on the part of many persons who heard this interesting speaker will have to be practiced; "a word to the truly wise, etc."

W. C. T. UNION.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Saturday at 2 P. M., for the purpose of organizing a juvenile and also a Young People's Temperance Union. The pastors of the different churches and all interested are cordially invited to be present. Good music and a few short speeches will be had. Children over 7, and all young people are specially invited.

STABBING AFFRAY.—On Sunday morning a serious stabbing affray occurred at Foard's boarding house, Upper Astoria. George Adams was badly cut in the left breast and back with a knife in the hands of Charley Mitchell, who is now in the county jail. Adams' report of the matter is to the effect that Mitchell became incensed at him because he dismissed him from work.

BOX SHEET OPEN.—The box sheet for the season of English Opera, to commence next Monday evening, will be opened to-morrow (Thursday) morning, at Prentice's music store. Notwithstanding the large and expensive company, the management has concluded to make no advance in price of admission. Reserved seats can be had during the season at popular prices—$1.

GERMAN CARP FREE.—Hon. M. C. George, member of congress, has received from Prof. Baird, of Smithsonian Institute, a number of blank applications for German carp, which will be forwarded free of expense to any part of the United States, to persons making such request. Applications may be made through Mr. George at his office in Union Block.

STREET BLOCKADED.—Front street from G, one block below the Clarendon, to Ainsworth dock is torn up, so that it is impassable for teams and pedestrians. Persons whose business requires them to go to the dock should take Third street to the end of the new bridge. This is opposite the lower road-way leading on to the wharf.

YOUR STATEMENTS, GENTLEMEN.—County Assessor Geo. C. Sears desires all persons who are subject to assessment, and who have been furnished with blank statements, to hurry up, fill them out and leave them at his office. Do not wait until the last day, but take time by the traditional "forelock," and hand them in.

ENGLISH OPERA COMPANY.—A dispatch yesterday from Mr. Sleeman, who is now in San Francisco, states that the Lester English opera company is now fully organized and will leave to-morrow morning on the steamer for Portland. The company will bring all the necessary costumes and properties along with them.

NORMAL WRITING COURSE.—Prof. J. M. Garrison will leave here this morning bound for Eugene City, where he has an engagement with the teachers of Lane county. He expects to meet all the teachers of that county in a body at Eugene and give them an eight-day course in normal writing.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—At a meeting held by the Blue Ribbon club of East Portland, the following persons were appointed an executive committee for the term: P. M. Black, W. [illegible], [illegible] W. J. Roberts, Miss Alice Simpson and Mrs. F. M. Robertson.

GONE TO SALEM.—Thomas Jackson, convicted of making an indecent assault on little Ethel Andrews, and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years, was taken to the Hotel de Bush yesterday afternoon.

ADMITTED.—In the U. S. district court yesterday, Paul Wiedlich was admitted to citizenship.

THE MENDELSSOHN QUINTETTE CONCERTS.

Yesterday morning there was quite a rush of subscribers at Prentice's to obtain choice seats. Of course, the usual amount of growling was indulged in by those unfortunate ones who failed to secure the coveted positions. This morning the remainder of the seats will be at public disposal after 8:30. Appearances indicate two immense houses, and the Mendelssohn Quintette richly deserve them. After their Oregon trip the club go to Australia under a contract for six months, quite a handsome sum having been guaranteed them. Our contemporaries are unanimous in their praise not only of the Quintette Club, but of Marie Nellini, the prima donna accompanying them. We append the programme for the first night, and would state that for the second night there will be an entire change of programme:

PART I.

Quintette in B-flat, op. 87, Mendelssohn Allegro-vivace.
Scene and Air, "Bel Raggio," from Semiramide, (Rossini.)................Miss Marie Nellini.
Concerto for flute, on La Sonnambula......Terschack
William Schade.
Quartette entitled "The Miller's Pretty Daughter," (Raff.)............a. { The Declaration.
b. { The Mill.
Fantasie on Hungarian airs, for violin........Ernst
Isidor Schnitzler.

PART II.

Romance for Clarinette...........................Ryan
Thomas Ryan.
Favorite Minuetto................................Boccherini
Solo for Violoncello on "Lo desir"...............Servais
Frederick Giese.
Song, "Oh, loving heart, trust on"........Gottschalk
Miss Marie Nellini.
March from the Ruins of Athens........Beethoven
(Arranged for Quintette.)

PERSONAL.

H. H. Halleck, of Salem, is registered at the St. Charles hotel.

Mr. H. G. Comegys and wife, of Kalama, are at the St. Charles hotel.

H. L. Mayer, Esq., postmaster at Sheridan, Yamhill county, is in the city.

Mayor J. W. Crawford of Salem, was in the city yesterday. He returned home on the express train.

Mr. J. C. Goodhue of Victoria, is in the city en route to his home. He was in attendance on the Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., which convened at Salem last week. Mr. Goodhue is an old steamship man, having years ago acted in the capacity of purser on the old steamers Active and Gussie Telfair, which ran between Portland and Sitka. For the past seven years Mr. Goodhue has been agent for the steamship company at Victoria.

In the report of the exercises of the French celebration held at Mechanics' Pavilion in San Francisco on the 14th inst., the Alta pays the following compliment to Miss Ellen Coursen, which will be read with interest by her many friends here:

"An original ode to the republic, composed by Dr. Depierres, was then sung by a full chorus and soloist, under the leadership of Joseph Roeckel. M. Charles Pechin chanted the first stanza. After this, Miss Coursen appeared, and her entrance was the signal for a loud outburst of applause, and at the conclusion of her solo, which she rendered in a beautiful manner she was the recipient of an encore and several baskets of flowers.

Governor Perkins was then introduced by the president, and delivered an oration in English.

At the conclusion of the governor's speech, Miss Coursen appeared costumed as the Goddess of Liberty, and carrying in her hand a large silk banner. She sang with dramatic effect the "Star Spangled Banner," and received an encore more pronounced than the first. She was recalled a second time and presented with a very large and magnificent basket of flowers."

MILITARY NOTES.

During the temporary absence of Major Greene, 2d Lieut. John S. Mallory, 2d infantry, aide-de-camp and acting judge advocate of the department, will conduct the business of the assistant adjutant-general's office.

Upon the recommendation of the chief ordnance officer, the commanding officer, Fort Stevens, is authorized to detail one man on extra duty in the ordnance department for 60 days, for the purpose of placing the ordnance and ordnance stores at that post in proper condition.

Major O. D. Greene, assistant adjutant-general of the department, will proceed hence to Port Townsend, W. T., and return, for the purpose of conferring with the president of the Puget Sound Telegraph Co. with reference to the establishment of future military telegraph lines in that vicinity.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The steamer Lurline will leave the foot of Alder street Saturday morning at 7 o'clock for Astoria and the seaside.

Olds & King, at 147 Third street, announce that their removal sale will close on Saturday, July 23d. They offer a magnificent assortment at cost.

John Barrett has received a very large assortment of cheap beautiful marbleized slate mantels, which can be seen at his place of business; also, Royal porcelain bathtubs, Minton's tiles, chandeliers, etc.

Abell is at home, as usual, at his galery and having renovated the establishment, added many new photographs, all fine, he is better than ever prepared to receive visitors.

Telephone to or order of the O. T. Co. when you or your family want a fine carriage for calling or riding.

Ice Cream at the Candy Factory, 232 First street.

FOURTH OF JULY MATTERS.

LAST MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

All Unfinished Business Settled—Reports from the Various Committees, etc.

Pursuant to a call from Mayor Thompson, the chairman of the Fourth of July executive committee, a meeting was held last evening at the council chamber, Mayor Thompson in the chair, and Mr. Geo. C. Sears, the secretary, in attendance.

The records of previous meetings were read and approved.

MILITARY.

The following report from the committee on military prize was read, adopted and the committee discharged:

PORTLAND, Or., July 5, 1881.

To the Executive Committee—GENTLEMEN: The undersigned, a committee appointed by you to act as referees in the matter of drill, etc., of the various militia companies of this city, would respectfully report: In consequence of a misunderstanding that arose as to who should have the right of the line but one company, namely, Emmet Guard, Co. B, appeared with the requisite number of men in line as per resolution passed by your committee, said company having thirty-five men in line. Co. I appeared with seventeen men in line. Portland Light Battery with thirty-two men, mounted and with two guns; Company A, with twenty-eight men, did not fall in in the procession.

The officers and men in all the companies deserve great credit for their general appearance and bearing as soldiers, and particularly as militiamen. Your committee regret very much that any misunderstanding should have occurred, thus marring the beauty of the procession, for we believe that on all such occasions the military arm is the principal feature.

Therefore, under all the circumstances, we would respectfully report the whole matter back to you for such action as you deem fit, proper and just in the premises.

A. J. MARSHALL,
C. P. PHILLIPS,
GEO. C. SEARS,
Committee.

FIRE CONTEST.

The committee on fire contest submitted the following report:

PORTLAND, July 6th.

To Committee on Firemen's Contests—GENTLEMEN: We, your sub-committee on Time, hereby decide that the following time was made by the respective companies:

Multnomah, No. 2	2:33
Protection, No. 4	1:21
Tiger, No. 5	1:[illegible]
Columbian, No. 3	1:45½

A. E. RALEIGH,
J. MONASTES,
C. P. BACON,
O. SUMMERS.

The above report was adopted and first prize was awarded Tiger Engine Co. No. 5, and the second prize awarded Protection Engine Co. No. 4.

PROTEST.

The following protest was read and laid on the table:

PORTLAND, July 6, 1881.

To the Committee on Running Tournament of Fire Companies No. 2, 3, 4 and 5—GENTLEMEN—The undersigned does hereby protest against the decision rendered by the judges, as it was impossible for them to get the correct time of No. 4 and 5, as there was but three minutes allowed between the starting of each engine company.

The time consumed by Co. No. 2, was 2 minutes 6 seconds, allowing but 54 seconds for the judges to go one block, get ready and set watches for the next company's running time.

The time for Nos. 2, 3 and 5, is thought to be correct, but incorrect as to No. 4.

We would therefore ask that the contest be run over again on next Saturday, or some day to be named by the committee. We would further state, that other gentlemen who were timing No. 4 and who had better opportunities than the judges to get the correct time, say that No. 4's time was 1 minute 9 seconds. We therefore ask your committee to look into the case.

We ask to be allowed to have our trial again, and the correct time taken. Messrs. Monnastes and Raleigh, judges, both stated that it was impossible to get the exact time of No. 4's running.

Trusting that the above will be granted, I remain yours

E. A. SPRAGUE,
Foreman Engine No. 4

AMUSEMENTS.

The committee on amusements submitted the following reports:

PORTLAND, July 7, 1881.

To the Committee on Amusements for Fourth of July Entertainment—GENTLEMEN: As the club I represent was the winner of the match in the cricket contest, I respectfully claim the prize of $40 offered by you. Yours truly,

A. MAXWELL,
Captain "Old Country Club."

Correct: Frank G. Abell (chairman), R. B. Bybee, Committee on Amusements.

PORTLAND, July 7, 1881.

To the Committee on Amusements for Fourth of July Entertainment—GENTLEMEN: As there were but two entries for the cricket contest, viz: the "Old Country Club" and the "Young America Club," we respectfully claim the second prize of $10 offered by you. Yours truly,

W. H. CREIGHTON,
Captain Young America Club.

Correct: Frank G. Abell (chairman), R. B. Bybee, Committee on Amusements.

GLASS BALL SHOOTING.

The committee on glass ball shooting submitted the following report:

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 6, 1881.

Executive committee Fourth of July: The prizes offered for glass ball shooting, and won as follows:

First team, Capt. Berger	$ 8[illegible]
Second team, Capt. Monastes	[illegible]
Third team, Capt. Bybee	[illegible]

ACKER & LEIHY.

"THE PASSION FOR KNOWLEDGE."

Dr. Truesdell lectures on Mother Eve, the Planets, etc.

Last evening Dr. A. F. Truesdell delivered the first regular lecture of his scientific course at the hall of the Y. M. C. A. to a very appreciative audience, who remained for some time after the close of his interesting and instructive address, to question him in regard to his startling claims for a new force in science or to use his own language "the only force in nature."

The doctor claimed and challenged the scientific and professional profession present to dispute his claim—that while there are a million forms of force, there is but one universal force in all nature. Capillary force, force of gravitation, electrical force, etc., etc., are but the various forms of the one only force. I call force God, creative power, force of all force! This force is ever present in every created thing: it forces the sap in the trees, and plants; it circulates the blood in animal and man, it sets the bounds to the ocean; it holds every planet, sun and comet in its own orbit. And until this one only force, call it God, nature, magnetic force, or what you please, is withdrawn from the planet, animal, man, star, meteor or comet, each and all will obey this Almighty power, until its own destiny is fulfilled, despite the most terrible fears of scientists, however great their name or discoverer.

All comets, planets and the "great" [illegible] of the heavenly bodies, I do not hesitate to affirm that there is no more danger than of "the milk in the moon," so long as the Master Force, only force, which created and placed each in its own appointed sphere, still remains present in every particle and form of that which has been created.

Certainly it is reasonable to believe that the creative force which first filled the eternal, endless space of the heavens with countless bodies, can and will hold them there despite the apprehensions of the most learned astronomers, from the giant Newton down to the present day.

Instead of accepting all that great scientists affirm (without proof) I claim the right to reject all that I can prove to be false.

And I am glad to learn that one of recent astronomers Prof. Tingley has dared to deny also the Newtonian theory of gravitation as the universal and supreme law of matter, although the professor is substituting disgravitation and para-gravitation for attractive and repulsive forces, leaves the whole matter a mere theory of his; while the one force theory accounts logically and as I believe undeniably, for all forms of force, life, health, disease and death, whether in plants, animals, man or worlds and systems of worlds.

Our space will not permit us to give more than this brief extract from the doctor's discourse, in which he paid a grateful and gracious tribute to much abused Mother Eve as the first scientific investigator.

Dr. Truesdell will deliver his next lecture on Thursday evening, and all interested in scientific facts should attend.

SHIPPING ITEMS.

There are no deep-water ships at this date south of Alder street.

The Columbia and Davenport, two large American ships, are lying below Ainsworth dock,—the former hauled into Greenwich dock two days since and is loading grain for Europe.

The steamer Dixie Thompson was crowded with passengers as she left her wharf at 7 A. M. yesterday for The Dalles. Her fare, 50 cents to The Dalles from Portland, and meals 25 cents, will induce thousands to visit The Dalles, we opine.

The Davenport will haul in to the wharf from the stream, where she discharged her railroad iron, to-day, and at once commence to load. Captain Fernald, who is in command of her, and who has been sick at St. George's hotel in this city, is convalescing.

The American ship Empire, 1137 tons, has almost discharged her solid cargo of hardware—harvesting machines, and railroad findings, carwheels, axletrees, etc. She is chartered and will commence to load for Queenstown or Falmouth for orders in a day or two.

The N. Boynton, an American vessel from Hong Kong, now almost unloaded, is probably the only unchartered ship in port. She is lying at McCraken's wharf, and has had offers. Parties are negotiating at this time and she will probably be engaged to-day or to-morrow.

British ship Taunton, of London, the clipper that recently arrived in this port from Hongkong with Chinese passengers and a general assorted cargo, has been chartered for Liverpool and will commence to take in her homeward-bound freight to-morrow or next day.

The British bark Sidlaw has about 300 bars of railroad iron remaining. This she will discharge to-morrow on the wharf at the foot of Washington street, so soon as she takes in fleur enough to make it safe to do so. Very few of these iron ships can stand up without 75 or 100 tons of cargo in the hold. The Sidlaw loads flour for Liverpool.

The barkentine North Bend, from San Francisco, lies at the wharf between A and B streets. She is at present discharging two immense locomotives, each having three pairs of driving wheels, and their ponderous tenders. These she brought from Frisco as a deckload. It seems almost incredible that the vessel could do this and carry any canvass but her great beam made it safe to attempt the undertaking. These locomotives are being unloaded by Mr. Aden of this city, and by him and his tackle they are being transferred to the O. R. & N. Co.'s barge to be sent up to The Dalles.

The two deep water yachts, the Abbie Bosse, Capt. Alden Noyes, and the Colonia, Capt. Cyrus Noyes, have hauled up to the old O. S. N. Co.'s wharf, foot of Ash street. The former is at present [illegible] and although as neat as a new pin is not receiving callers. The Colonia is like a new dollar, and from truck to keelson will bear inspection. Looking at their beautiful lines and the beautiful house flags with the initials [illegible] at the main to a former distinguished citizen of Portland, Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, who, with a portion of his family, is now visiting this city.

THE TELEGRAPH AS A SOCIAL FORCE.

What it did during the Recent National Crisis.

[New York World, July 8.]

The value and efficiency of the telegraph as a social force able to concentrate instantaneously on any given subject all the best feeling and soundest opinion in the country were never more strikingly illustrated than in the case of the dreadful news which on Saturday last was sent over the wires throughout the length and breadth of this colossal republic. It is difficult to conceive the extent of the damage which might have been done to all the interests of the country, political, financial and industrial, had such an event as the assassination of the president happened in a time of profound peace before the invention of the telegraph. Time would have been granted for the concoction and propagation of all manner of mischievous stories as to the origin, the motives and the consequences of the deed. Thanks to the telegraph, the news that the assassin had probably failed in his object reached the furthest confines of the republic almost as rapidly as the tidings of the nefarious attempt. The sound business judgment and patriotic feeling of good citizens in one part of the country were put into instantaneous communication with the sound business judgment and patriotic feeling of good citizens in all other parts of the country. An accurate return of the telegraphic messages, public and private, through which this work was done between the morning of Saturday, the 2d, and the evening of Monday, the 4th of July, would give a most interesting statistical measure of the influence of the telegraph on modern society. Nor must it be forgotten that all this tremendous machinery was suddenly set in motion, and incessantly kept going, on the eve of the great national holiday, extending this year, as it did, over two of the three days thus occupied. This could not have been accomplished without extraordinary and unselfish efforts on the part of the great army of telegraph operators, high and low, all over the country. While the great army of spoilsmen who feed on the public crib were running to and fro and cackling as to the possible effect of the assassin's shot upon themselves these silent, indefatigable workers were keeping up the swift and healthy circulation of public sentiment and public intelligence to meet the shock of an unexampled national crisis. It is gratifying to know that this admirable conduct of the whole telegraphic corps has not passed unrecognized by the heads of the organization. On Tuesday morning, when the first tremendous strain of the work began to be relieved, the following telegram was issued by the central office:

NEW YORK, July 5.

To all Superintendents: The prompt and satisfactory manner in which our employes have met the emergencies of the service during the past few days deserves more than a passing recognition. Disregarding Sunday and holiday hours, they have remained on duty day and night enabling us to keep the public all over the country constantly advised of the condition of the president. You are authorized to see that they are properly remunerated for the extraordinary service they have so willingly rendered and to express to them the thanks of the company. THOS. T. ECKERT, General Manager.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

The Teachers' Institute, and the Cause of Education in Oregon.

Having had the privilege, the pleasure and the benefit of attending the sessions of the State Teachers' Association held in Portland, it may not be amiss to express a few thoughts and offer a few suggestions [illegible] by that event. As the writer understands the object of these institutes is to improve the means and methods of education, to bring all of its machinery into energetic and harmonious action; to bring, as far as possible, all of the teachers of the state and contiguous counties, into contact [illegible] and cooperation, to learn the best methods of teaching and instruction, and to receive the benefit of comparison and drill from superior instructors which will render the common school teacher more efficient and proficient in his or her work.

How far these purposes are accomplished in the recent association will in part remain for future results to determine. [illegible] appreciated the high privileges of this [illegible] it was lamentable that only about [illegible] of the teachers of the state availed themselves of its benefits [illegible] compared with previous conventions, it [illegible] nearly all of the Portland teachers were present, and [illegible] representing newly every [illegible] of the state.

[illegible]

The Governor [illegible]

[illegible] in short, his suggestive hints of what to do, how to do, and above all what not to do rendered invaluable benefit to those who will act on his suggestions [illegible] here, it showed those present the great necessity of a more thorough preparation for the high duties of a teacher, and we trust that the inspiration he gave to those present will through them radiate to those absent, and enthuse the entire fraternity with a determination to secure the means for a better preparation for their high calling.

Somewhat censorious comments have justly been made upon the neglect of the citizens of Portland to attend the sessions of the institute. The use of the M. E. church was secured at what proved an unnecessary expense, to afford the friends of education an opportunity to attend at least the evening sessions, and to the sorrow of all earnest workers, but a meager number came to get the benefit of the important lessons and rich intellectual and literary repasts there presented. Whatever apology may be offered the conspicuous absence of many whom duty, if not pleasure, should have called there, is a sorry commentary on the interest which should characterize all who seek the public good, in the best means of promoting it. Does anybody believe that a circus, even if no better advertised, would have been no better patronized?

Governor Thayer and wife did, at the earnest solicitation of the state superintendent, do themselves and the institute the honor of one attendance, at which his excellency expressed in appropriate terms his high sense of the importance of our schools, of all educational instrumentalities, and especially of the efficient services of Prof. Powell, who directs and energizes our state system. While we forbear further censure, believing that "a word to the wise is sufficient," it may be consoling to say that this apparent apathy is by no means confined to Portland. Parents and all not specially engaged in school work, throughout the whole country, manifest too little interest in the ordinary work of our school system, and far too few realize the importance of normal schools or of teachers' institutes.

"It is generally believed that the army and navy is the strong arm of protection of our government and no one doubts the necessity of military academies [illegible]

[illegible]

As our common schools are the main pillars of the temple of American liberty, as they are the best means of republican institutions, as they are the principal factors in the formation of individual and national character, as they are the foundations of our government and the hope of its perpetuation, let us as citizens, legislators and teachers do all we can to improve them, and to this end secure the best trained talent to teach them.

For this purpose, until the development of the population and wealth of the state will warrant a normal school, it is to be hoped that state and county institutes will be kept up, and that all the teachers and patrons of education will attend them, and as often as may be possible, secure the services of Prof. Allen or some other equally experienced educator to train those who hold the keys of knowledge and progress in trust in their hands.

DEAN CLARKE.

ARTHUR AND CONKLING.

Difference between the Positions of Arthur and Conkling.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The respect for the vice president has been continually growing, on account of his manly, dignified character and actions. His grief has been as deep as any one's, and its expression is strong and earnest. He fully realized the position in which Guiteau's utterances placed him. He talks freely of the criticisms which his work at Albany created, and recognizes that but for the present situation it would not be so embarrassing and annoying to him. The only defense he offers is that the demand of friendship seemed so strong that he followed his first impulse and started to the assistance of Conkling.

Arthur's course is in sharp contrast to Conkling's, whose long-delayed, cold and formal words only added to the general disgust. The cold-blooded interview which he first furnished to the press caused undisguised regret among his fast diminishing circle of friends and defenders here. The letter to the attorney general and the telegram which followed it do not even satisfy these friends. With the general public they were accepted as forming altogether the most unfortunate public exhibition of himself yet made by Conkling. The events of the week have thus resulted in putting a wide distance between the position which Vice President Arthur and ex-Senator Conkling occupy with relation to present affairs.

There were six applicants for the position of music teacher in Ashland college this year. Miss Alena Weber was the successful aspirant.

STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

[illegible] OF THE OREGONIAN.

The receipts of the late state fair amounted to $1[illegible]. This sum, though less than the receipts of favorable years, is amply sufficient to pay all premiums and expenses of [illegible] and society. Of the receipts of this year some $4000 was applied to the payment of old warrants issued in 1879-80. The State Agricultural Society would have been out of debt and in a prosperous condition if its affairs had been managed with ordinary skill, prudence and economy. The manner of its management would have swamped a dry goods merchant in his first invoice of tape. And yet it is hard to say that anybody has been to blame. There have been too many to be responsible anywhere. Mass meetings do not usually transact business wisely. A board of directors, consisting of one from every county in the state, with the executive officers chosen by ballot [illegible] on the fair grounds, comes pretty near to mass meeting management.

NEWS NOTES FROM EUGENE.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.

EUGENE, July 15, 1881.

A large proportion of our citizens have left for the mountains.

Quite a number of premiums were awarded exhibitors of Lane county for exhibits at the state fair. Noticeably were the premiums for wheat, awarded Mr. Geo. Belshaw, and the premium awarded Mrs. Jerry Heans for elaborate and expensive work on a chair cushion.

Our city council, at its last meeting, passed several new ordinances, the effect of which, if carried into effect, will be an abatement of a great nuisance that of half-starved cows roaming about the city by night in [illegible] vegetable gardens and shade and fruit trees, also imposing heavy fines for throwing filth and rubbish in back alleys.

The breakwater east of the Eugene bridge has been completed, and has been constructed on the most approved plan. There can be no doubt but what the work is done in a very substantial manner. Of course it is constructed altogether in the form of cribs and piling, and will be subject to decay from the action of the elements, and at best can only last for eight or ten years. There being a large open space between the bridge and breakwater, it affords an excellent advantage for the setting of willow and balm stakes, so that by the time the timbers in the breakwater decay there will be a heavy growth of brush and trees that will afford greater protection to the bridge than half a dozen breakwaters.

NEWS NOTES FROM SCIO.

SCIO, July 16, 1881.

REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE.

Trains run to Brownsville [illegible].

Reports of crops are very favorable and large yields are looked for.

The McCulley bridge on Thomas creek above town is being rebuilt.

The new time table took effect on the O. R. R. Co. Limited, line, Monday. Scio gets a train every other day.

Our town is still improving, and when the railroad is settled more improvements will be commenced. A good hotel is promised.

The flax fiber puller, we are informed, is a decided success. The importance of this invention lies in the fact that pulling flax has always been very expensive and tedious. The cost was by hand about $6 per acre, with machine it will be only about $1, besides allowing time to take care of a greater number of acres.

Lady with steel colored silk, who made appointment with military gentleman from Vancouver, is informed that she can obtain all the money required by pawning her diamonds with Uncle Myers, 181 First st.

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH IS OVER.

Business is quiet all over the city; but ISAAC BARMAN don't feel the effect of it.

THE REASONS ARE:

That he still continues to sell the immense stock of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods, which he bought of Mr. A. MEYER at such very low figures, at prices that will astonish the closest buyer.

That his entire stock must be sold on or before the 1st day of September, in order to make room for his immense fall stock.

That he is offering Great Bargains, having reduced—

Suits from $15 00 to $10 00
Suits from $17 50 to $12 50
Suits from $20 00 to $15 00
Suits from $22 50 to $17 50
Suits from $25 00 to $20 00

That he is offering his entire stock of Furnishing Goods at 75 cents on the dollar.

That he has marked down his entire stock of Scarfs and Ties at 50 cents on the dollar.

That he is compelled to raise money, and he will not let up until he has it.

Make use of the opportunity before it is too late.

THE PRESIDENT'S PHYSICIANS.

A Brief Account of Drs. Bliss, Woodward Barnes and Reyburn

Washington special to Chicago Tribune

The medical officer in charge of the president is Dr Willard Bliss Dr Bliss was born at Auburn N Y in 1825 and graduated in 1849 at the medical college in Cleveland O Soon after he removed to Michigan and practiced at Ionia and afterward at Grand Rapids in that state where he remained until removing to Detroit just prior to the breaking out of the rebellion He was married in Detroit in 1849 to Miss Ducharm of that city At the breaking out of the war Dr Bliss was commissioned surgeon of the Third Michigan volunteers with a brother as his assistant The regiment came to Washington and engaged in the battle of Bull Run at which battle Dr Bliss was in charge of the division field hospital In the fall of 1861 he was one of the medical officers selected for a commission by President Lincoln as a division surgeon and in the organization of the army of the Potomac was attached to the staff of the late Gen Phil Kearny with whose division he served until after the battle of Seven Pines on the peninsula His health failing he was ordered to Washington and placed in charge of the hospitals which had been established in the churches of this city — the Epiphany and others Later in 1862 he was placed in charge of the celebrated Armory Square hospital and superintended the erection of the buildings of that hospital which covered a space of over fifty acres This was the largest hospital in Washington during the war and was placed the nearest to all the steamboat wharves and the Virginia railway to which all of the most dangerously wounded of the soldiers were removed for treatment He remained in the charge of this hospital until September 1865 frequently having under his charge as many as 12 000 or 15 000 patients He was urged to accept an appointment in the regular army on the medical staff but declined and began the practice of his profession in this city where he has remained ever since In 1864 he was urged for the appointment of surgeon-general of the United States army to fill the vacancy caused by the dismissal of Surgeon-General William A Hammond Gen Barnes, who is now associated with him in the treatment of the president succeeded to that appointment On the organization of the board of health of the District of Columbia he was appointed by President Grant one of its members and was elected by his colleagues its president

Practicing in the city among others was another member of the board, Dr C C Cox formerly lieutenant governor of Maryland who while a practitioner of the orthodox school was not a member of the medical society of the District of Columbia which assumes to control the practice of medicine in this District Among other practitioners who were non members of the society were two colored men—Dr Augusta who held a commission as surgeon during the war and Dr Purvis These were refused admission to the society on account of their color notwithstanding which non membership Dr Bliss found no objection to meeting these physicians in consultation whenever called upon For this he was severely attacked by the members of the society The society in their attempt to expel afterwards found cause to attack Dr Bliss from the fact that believing he had ascertained a specific remedy for the cure of that terrible disease cancer he had entered into a partnership with another physician and had used his ample means extensively in advertising this specific mixture the famous cundurango throughout the United States and Europe The society attacked the remedy as a quack medicine and the matter was taken up by a class of papers who were glad to find an excuse to join in the attacks upon any person connected in any manner with the government of the District of Columbia His venture in this direction nearly impoverished him but his very large practice has already almost restored his fortune Dr Bliss connection with the case of the president began Saturday as soon as the shot was fired when the carriage of Secretary Lincoln was sent at a rapid pace for him and he was the first physician to arrive at the side of the wounded president Upon his arrival Dr Bliss at once decided that Surgeon General Barnes and Surgeons Joseph Woodward and Basil Norris of the army should be sent for which was at once done These physicians with the exception of Dr Norris and together with Dr Bliss and Dr Reyburn of this city constitute the medical staff who are now in attendance on the illustrious patient Drs Hamilton of New York city and Agnew of Philadelphia who arrived here at an early hour yesterday morning were called in by Dr Bliss to whom their services had been mentioned [illegible] the physicians will be [illegible] properly and [illegible] to the public at large Dr Bliss with Surgeon General Barnes and Dr Norris were among the physicians summoned to the bedside of Abraham Lincoln in 1865 and were present at the death scene

BREVET LIEUT COL JOSEPH JANVIER WOODWARD

Surgeon United States army was born in Philadelphia in 1832 and graduated from Pennsylvania university in 1853 He practiced medicine in his native city until August 1861 when he was appointed an assistant surgeon in the regular army Before entering the service he had already attained considerable distinction in his profession for his abilities from a number of treatises which he published on abstruse subjects and especially on the use of the microscope in the practice of medicine In his latter branch he has now attained such eminence that he is regarded throughout the medical and scientific world as one of the highest authorities One result of his studies in microscopy has been his invention of an instrument by which the myopia or other conditions of the eye can be determined with mathematical accuracy In 1866 while yet only a lieutenant in actual rank though he had received the brevets of captain major, and lieutenant colonel for special meritorious and valuable professional services during the war he was selected for the most important duty of taking charge of editing the Surgical and Medical History of the Rebellion on which duty he is still employed in this city Col Woodward was promoted to the rank of captain in 1868 and in 1876 to the grade of surgeon with the rank of major He is a member of the American Medical association and a member of the American Academy of Science

BREVET MAJ-GEN JOSEPH K BARNES

Surgeon general United States army was born in Philadelphia July 21 1817 and graduated at the Philadelphia university in 1838 In 1840 he was appointed in the army and first served in the Florida Indian war under Gen Harner During the Mexican war he was chief medical officer of the cavalry brigade and participated in every action on Scott's and Taylor's line except at Buena Vista At the outbreak of the rebellion he was a surgeon, having attained that grade in August 1856 while serving on the Pacific coast He was one of the first medical officers ordered east from Oregon in 1861 and was placed on special duty as assistant in the surgeon general's office here and was employed in the task of organizing and rendering efficient the large medical staff rendered necessary for the great armies On the organization by congress in February 1863 of ten grades of medical inspectors he was promoted to lieutenant colonel and in the following August was promoted to the medical inspector general of the army with the rank of colonel In the next month he became acting surgeon general of the army On the arrest of Gen William A Hammond on serious charges and on the dismissal of that officer he became surgeon general with the rank of brigadier general August 22 1864 and has since remained on duty here

DR ROBERT REYBURN

Was born in Glasgow Scotland August 1 1833 and came to the United States when nine years old He graduated at the Philadelphia medical college in 1856 He practiced in Philadelphia until 1862 when he entered the Union army as a medical officer of volunteers and in 1867 was appointed in the regular army He settled with his family in Washington in 1862 and has since resided here A sketch of his life in Atkinson's History of Distinguished Physicians and Surgeons of the United States gives the following He is a member of the American Medical association and a vice president of the Washington Medical society and has held the following positions Was surgeon-in-chief of the freedmen's bureau, was professor of surgery and dean of the faculty of Howard university and in 1876 was made professor of surgery and dean of the faculty of the medical school of Georgetown college District of Columbia He is also a well known writer on medical topics and has published a long list of treatises on medical specialties

WALTER BAGEHOT AS A BIOGRAPHER Bagehot's very excellence wrote against his success in dealing with the inner life the ideal aspirations of poets and philosophers He was an acute observer of what he called real life life in the market place and the Senate there his power of insight ceased But within that sphere his glance was sure his imagination active his sympathy intense If we might attempt to sum up Bagehot's qualifications as a writer in a phrase we should say that he was a brilliant expositor of public life He saw clearly, and he made his readers see clearly the motive powers of real life the machinery of the market the dynamics of politics —The Athenæum

LUCRETIA GARFIELD

The President's Noble Wife [illegible] Meeting with her Stricken and [illegible] Husband

The New York [illegible] correspondent saw and conversed with most of the ladies and gentlemen who passed Saturday night in the white house hoping and fearing alternately for the safety of the life of the chief executive [illegible] the scenes which they relate with detail would serve to make a graphic picture of a scene which all Americans will look upon with intense interest [illegible] still more for [illegible] President Garfield [illegible] the wife and father [illegible] until [illegible] after the attempt made upon his life by the assassin Guiteau

From the time of the shooting at the Baltimore and Potomac depot Saturday morning until nearly midnight but little if any hope of saving the president's life was [illegible] by the physicians who attended him [illegible] from boyhood up he never [illegible] rallied from the shock He [illegible] It was when it became possible for him to talk at all after being removed to the executive mansion [illegible] wife and children He feared the effect of the terrible news upon Mrs Garfield and he was anxious to have her and their daughter Mollie with him that he might reassure them of possible [illegible] and to keep up in them [illegible] desired that he should die He was very weak at this time and to all appearances sinking fast He was told by Mrs James wife of the postmaster general and Mrs Hunt who were doing all that sympathetic women could do to make him comfortable that Mrs Garfield would be with him by six o'clock Every moment seemed an age to the fast sinking father and husband He turned restlessly in his bed and asked the time of day continually It was evident that his anxiety to meet Mrs Garfield was aggravating the effect of the wound which he had received but nothing could be done Six o'clock came and with it instead of Mrs Garfield the news that the engine of her train had broken down 17 miles outside of Washington This news was carefully kept from the suffering president and a fresh engine started off to take the place of the disabled one It brought Mrs Garfield Mollie Garfield Gen Swain and Mrs Rockwell to the city at the rate of 15 miles an hour and at 6 50 the party drove up to the private entrance in the rear of the white house

Here the almost heart broken wife was met by her son James A Garfield Jr Mrs James and Attorney General MacVeagh She placed her hands in those of Mr James and directing a piercing inquiry into her eyes exclaimed interrogatively "Well?" "Oh, everything is going on beautifully" said Mrs James in reply "only he must not be excited You must be very calm when you meet him" Mrs Garfield had nerved herself for the ordeal and she answered simply, but with great firmness "I can do it" The party then went sadly up stairs young James A Garfield with his arm about his mother's waist Arrived in the library everybody but Mrs Garfield paused and the doctors with bowed heads from the president's chamber Mrs Garfield passed quickly in and the door was closed Of that solemn meeting between husband and wife no record will ever be given The two were alone together without witnesses At the end of about 15 minutes the door opened and Mrs Garfield came slowly out There were no tears in her eyes and she walked with a firm step and took her seat in the library She was very brave and bore up nobly under the great blow that had fallen upon her As she left the room Mrs James passed in The president was smiling, and he beckoned with his finger to the lady to approach She leaned over the president and he said "Have you met Crete?" Mrs Garfield's Christian name is Lucretia and Crete is the pet name by which the president always speaks of her "Yes I have met her" said Mrs James "And how does she act, how does she bear it?" was the next inquiry "She bore it like the true wife of a true soldier" answered Mrs James "Ah the dear little woman" exclaimed the president "I would rather die than that this should cause a relapse to her"

Soon after Miss Mollie entered the room She too was very brave and forced herself to assume a calmness which she could not feel Advancing steadily [illegible] as he lay on what was supposed to be his death bed she said "Oh Papa I'm so glad to get back to you but I'm so sorry to see you in this way" Then she kissed him and the [illegible] putting his arm around her neck [illegible] "Mollie you're a brave little girl" "Well I'm not going to talk [illegible]" said the stout hearted little girl as she [illegible] his arm from her [illegible] "wait till you get well" and with these parting words she kissed him again [illegible] turned and walked from the room followed by a beaming smile from the president

From the [illegible] of Mrs Garfield [illegible] the president's [illegible] at [illegible] turned over and with one hand [illegible] arm of Mrs James and his head resting upon her other hand he fell into a gentle sleep In half an hour however he awoke and complained of a pain in his feet It did not last long, and he dozed off again still holding the hand of Mrs James This time he slept a little over half an hour and when he awoke he said to Mrs James "Do you know where Mrs Garfield is now?" "Oh yes" Mrs James answered "she is close by watching and praying for her husband" He looked up to the lady with an anxious face and said "I want her to go to bed Will you tell her that I say if she will undress and go to bed I will turn right over and I feel sure that when I she is in bed I can go to sleep and sleep all night Tell her," he exclaimed with sudden energy "that I will sleep all night if she will only do what I ask" Mrs James conveyed the message to Mrs Garfield, who said to her at once "Go back and tell him that I am undressing" She returned with the answer and the president turned over on his right side and dropped into a quiet sleep almost instantly

BITS OF CRITICISM.

LA REVOLUTION M TAINE'S NEW BOOK —It is not easy to explain why a writer of the experience and ability of M Taine has chosen a style of composition which gives such an unfavorable and unjust impression of his unquestioned talents The French have always been supposed tolerant of all styles except the dull style If they read this book the fact will prove that they have at least partially overcome this antipathy Can the solution possibly be this that M Taine to his many and rare gifts does not unite the historical faculty of lucid and bright narrative? It would almost appear to be so Let any one read his account of the events of the 20th of June and from that onward to the 10th of August and he will find that there is hardly an extant history of that period which does not favorably compare with M Taine's Even the plodding Mortimer Ternaux is a Xenophon beside M Taine He never seems to have made up his mind whether to tell the story all over again which would have been a bold but perhaps a justifiable ambition or whether he would assume the facts to be well known to the reader and discourse on them as a political reasoner drawing his conclusions and pointing the moral which he preferred —Pall Mall Gazette

HOLMES ON THE COMMON LAW Before this we have called attention to the danger in which English lawyers stand of being outrun by their American brethren in the scientific and historical criticisms of English legal institutions and ideas The book now published by Mr O W Holmes adds considerably to the advantage gained on the American side in this friendly contest Mr Holmes does not write as a member of any school of theorists or critics and in the handling of his subjects he owes, apparently very little to previous authors in the same kind Observers of hereditary talent may rather note in his subtle and original following out of analogies and presentation of familiar elements in fresh lights a sufficiently plain continuance of like powers which exercised on more popular and various topics have for many years charmed readers of English on both sides of the Atlantic in the works of Dr O W Holmes the father Still Mr Holmes may be said in a certain sense to belong to an American school of legal criticism distinguishable from anything that has yet taken root here Altogether American writers are in conditions especially favorable for the detachment and breadth of view which are among the chief requisites of systematic legal criticism For some time international law has been with them a favorite subject but this though by its cosmopolitan character it offers abundant facilities for theorizing is wanting in matter which exact criticism can lay hold of and its theoretical part belongs as much to politics as to law The energy of American inquirers is now directing itself to legal archæology as a field more neglected and presenting greater opportunities We do not say that they have yet brought their school to perfection But they have already done good work and we trust are on the way to do much more Altogether Mr Holmes' book will be a most valuable we should almost say indispensable companion to the scientific student of legal history —The Saturday Review

THE POWERLESSNESS OF CRITICISM This is the incessant charge against critics that they poison the existence of authors good and bad The accusation seems to have very little reason in it Authors are really engaged voluntarily in a kind of game They throw down the challenge to the critic they are miserable if he does not take it up and they become half wild with rage if his verdict is not favorable Experience by this time might teach even authors that critics have little power to make or mar Let a book be good or bad if it has the element of popularity in it it will succeed in spite of [illegible] wrath [illegible] of popularity in it [illegible] Every great [illegible] was violently attacked in his beginnings [illegible] A writer [illegible] The Saturday Review

Ladies

Do you want a pure, blooming Complexion? If so, a few applications of Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM will gratify you to your heart's content. It does away with Sallowness, Redness, Pimples, Blotches, and all diseases and imperfections of the skin. It overcomes the flushed appearance of heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes a lady of THIRTY appear but TWENTY; and so natural, gradual, and perfect are its effects, that it is impossible to detect its application.

HUB PUNCH,

TO TOP OFF A DINNER,

May be Drunk Clear, as a Cordial.

For a dinner thoroughly appointed the good old way was to wash down the last triumphs of the feast with copious libations of rich rare and curious old Port and Golden Sherry, but HUB PUNCH has added a new sensation to the epicure Its delicacy, aroma flavor and delicious but gentle effects proclaim it the nectar fit for the gods banqueting on Olympus

Mix HUB PUNCH with Ice Water, Cold Tea Lemonade, or Soda It is unanimously pronounced unrivalled.
